COAL MINING HAS GIVEN KENTUCKY HER INCREASE IN POPULATION

Gain in our Coal Mining Population 147 Per Cent in Past Ten Years

THIS LEAVES LESS THAN FOUR PER CENT GAIN FOR OTHER POPULATION

Prof. Norwood, Chief Inspector of Mines Tells Editors at Mid-Winter Press Meeting.

COAL MINING STATES GREATEST INTEREST NOW AND IN FUTURE

Any Development of Agriculture or Manufactures Must Come Through Mining.

The paper of Prof. O. J. Norwood, State Mine Inspector and head of the Geological Survey of Kentucky, was regarded as one of the most valuable read at the session of the mid-winter meeting of the Kentucky Press Association at Louisville last week. Subject was "Buried Treasure." Prof. Norwood set forth the valuable natural resources of the state and the best method of developing them; and he urged the co-operation of the press in pointing out the great good that can be accomplished by this development. He said in part:

"Some years ago the late Richard P. Rothwell said in an editorial in the Engineering and Mining Journal, 'Kentucky is by nature, beyond all question, one of the most favored states in this country.' No one questions that, but, according to my reasoning, most persons put the State's value in agricultural advantages to the forefront, whereas, fine as it is for farming purposes, it is, taken as a whole, greater in a mineral way. This later fact is apparently more keenly appreciated by citizens of other States than by our own people. It is easier to obtain Kentucky capital for the development of mineral deposits in other States than it is to get it for the development of better deposits in our own State. It seems true; indeed, that 'to be interested in distant objects like the moon, and to neglect what lies at our feet, appears to be a trait of human nature.'

Our Wealth of Coal.

"Of the total expanse of the State (41,283 square miles), about 16,670 square miles are covered with coal-bearing formations, in which occur, according to locality, from nine to 12 or more workable coals: a region of about 2,090 square miles in the west is rich in veins of fluor spar, barytes and calc spar, with some lead and zinc; in the central part, lead, barytes and calc spar veins, with some fluor spar, are found in enormous numbers distributed over an area of about 4,000 square miles; over the whole of Jackson's Purchase region, about 2,840 square miles, splendid clay is abundant, together with sands of high value, valuable silicious earths, lignitic beds and other minerals; adjacent to the eastern and southern margins of the western coal fields is an area of perhaps 1,000 square miles in which are found excellent plastic clays and some kaoline, while on the western margin of the same field are large areas of high-class refractory clays, or 'fire sands,' with some kaoline. In addition, we have great areas of fine clays and cement-making materials on the rim of the central region; superior cement materials are also found on the margins of both coal fields and elsewhere. Then, also, we have large areas of the highest grade of fire clay in the eastern coal field, hundreds of square miles of excellent iron ore, favorably placed with reference to fuel and flux; great areas of limestone and sandstone of the highest value for structural and other purposes; large areas of 'rock asphalt,' for paving, roadmaking and other purposes; an abundance of well-distributed road-making material other than limestone, consisting of clays for burning as such or mixed with sand, also chert and black shale; notably extensive fields of petroleum and natural gas, and of salt brines; large areas of potash shales, and extensive areas of phosphatic limestone and nodules; regions of glass sand, of moulder's sand, of flint, of metallic paint beds and pigment earths; areas of excellent lithographic stone, and so on. We have all that, and yet the selling value of our mineral output, including cement and clay products, at the place of production, doubtless did not exceed $18,000,000 current year.

Increasing the Population.

"Now, I believe that the press in its anxiety to build up the State, has been prone to dwell too much on the immediate importance of obtaining an increase in the agriculture population. To increase such a population—to have a larger percentage of our soil in cultivation—is a desirable thing, but I fear we have not gone about the business in the right way. Aside from the fact that it is of first importance to get better results from the soil we are already cultivating, we must first increase the industrial population of the state before we can hope to make any great advantage in diversified farming, when that is done the agricultural increase will come, and we will at the same time, be able to hold our young farmers at home. The farmer must have a better home market for his products, otherwise we need not expect an increase of prosperity simply through an increase in the number of farmers.

"It seems to me that, while we have hitherto rather thoroughly exploited the agricultural side of the state we have failed to pay sufficient attention to the mineral side—not coal alone but the varied mineral resources of the State.

"I believe that if the editors will emphasize the mineral advantages of their regions more fully than has been the case hitherto and work for the establishment of industries that may be based on them, they will accomplish more toward building up agriculture than can be done otherwise since, as the mining manufacturing industries grow the home market for agricultural products will grow.

"See what coal mining alone has wrought! From an output of 5,020,675 tons in 1900 the production of commercial coal has grown; according to present indications, to about 12,900,000 tons in 1910 possible somewhat less and possibly even 13,000,000 tons. This is an increase of about 7,879,000 tons, or about 157 per cent. in the ten years, and we have just begun to mine coal.

"The number of coal miners has also grown greatly; indeed, such gain in population as we have made since 1900 appears to be very largely, if not most largely, due to mining. I believe it within reasonable bounds to estimate that the gain in the last ten years, exclusive of that portion of the population employed in mining, has been less than 80,000.

Gain in Mining Population.

"In 1900 there were 10,222 persons employed at the coal mines. Those employed at Clay, fluor spar, barytes and iron mines may be estimated at 500, making a total of 10,722 miners. Assuming that 85 per cent. of these miners represent families of five persons, and I believe that is somewhere near the correct proportion, the mining population in 1900 was about 47,178.

"The total population was restored as 2,147,174. Subtracting the mining families leaves 2,100,000 as the non-mining population in 1900.

"In 1910 about 24,910 persons were employed at the coal mines, and about 1,000 at other mines. These probably represent a population of about 113,000.

"Subtracting this mining population from the total population reported leaves 2,176,900 as the non-mining population which is an increase of only 76,900 for the ten years.

"If these figures prove to be approximately correct, it shows that while there has been a gain of more than 141 per cent. in the coal mining population alone, the gain in other population was but little more than 3 1/2 per cent.

"Were we to base calculation on the population represented by all families whose subsistence is dependent upon wages earned in the production of mineral substances in the state—thus including stone quarries, petroleum and natural gas with the coal, clay, fluor spar, barytes, calcite and iron mines—we would prob-

TWO HUNDRED YEARS OF INDUSTRIAL LIFE YET IN SIGHT FOR EARLINGTON

Prediction Made by John B. Atkinson, Pioneer and Expert in Coal Mining.

Much has been said during the past few years about the future of Earlington as a mining and railroad town and the effect on our people of present and possible railroad changes. Even some of our business men were for a time timorous as to the outcome, when the railroad "cutoff" was begun, and perhaps but few of our citizens have entertained anything like the broad view of continuous future prosperity that is justified by the physical facts. The Bee has consistently held that all conditions were favorable to a long continuation of business life and prosperity for this community, but there have been, nevertheless, some who were doubters and some who were afraid. It is a pleasure now to give our readers the unreserved opinion of a man who is both a pioneer and an expert in coal mining in Kentucky, whose opinion all will respect and believe. Mr. John B. Atkinson, president of the St. Bernard Mining Co., has been solicited by Earlington business men to speak his mind on these matters and he has consented to do so through a letter which he yesterday addressed to the editor of The Bee, which is printed below:

ST. BERNARD MINING COMPANY
OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

Earlington, Ky., January 2, 1911

PAUL M. MOORE,
Editor of The Bee:

The question has been asked me, "How long will the coal mines of Earlington last?"

During the FORTY YEARS since No. 11 and No. 9 mines were opened, there has been taken from ALL the ST. BERNARD MINES, No. 9, No. 11, Arnold, Hecla, Barnesley, Diamond, St. Charles and Shamrock, TWENTY MILLIONS OF TONS OF COAL.

Before going East last spring for my vacation I personally made investigation of the amount of coal, both No. 9 and No. 11, that is yet untouched and will be mined by the citizens of Earlington, Hecla and Barnesley. It amounted to OVER EIGHTY MILLIONS OF TONS.

To mine at the rate of 800,000 tons yearly would take ONE HUNDRED YEARS TO EXHAUST THIS COAL. After that we have the lower veins to work, which will probably take not less than another hundred years.

I confess that, long before these two hundred years elapse, I will not be very much interested in Earlington. With our three towns of 5,000 people, does any citizen think for a moment that the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co. will be so foolish as to ignore Earlington and its great coal tonnage? Earlington and the 5,000 people who make practically one business community? Earlington, with its fine school, numerous churches, its city conveniences, with every house occupied by business and working men, industrious, sober, thrifty, intelligent men, employees of coal mine and railroad, who are not surpassed by the citizens of any other town in Kentucky.

You, as editor of The Bee, have constantly taken the position of cheerful optimism as to the future of Earlington as a coal town and its future prospects as a permanent railroad town. You have exploited for many years the coal resources and the industrial importance of Earlington and Hopkins county. You have lived through times of depression and discouragement, as well as in the busiest seasons of the coal traffic—which makes Earlington—that the future of the town was assured.

Pardon me your position and the cheerful and constant work the Earlington Bee has for more than twenty years done in exploiting the mining resources of Earlington, of Hopkins county and of Western Kentucky, and in advertising the importance of Earlington as a coal mining and railroad center. And I predict, as I have indicated above, an industrial future for Earlington that goes in length of time beyond, perhaps, the rosiest thoughts of the readers of The Bee.

Very truly yours,

JOHN B. ATKINSON, President.

ably find that our gain since 1900 has been due chiefly to the development of our mineral values.

"I believe that the growth of this State is to come through mining and the development of our oil and natural gas resources and of manufactures allied with mining. If it is to become a sheep raising State, it must come through mining. If it is to become a cattle raising State—not simply a grower of blooded heads—it must come through mining. If it is to be eminent as more than a tobacco growing State, agriculturally, it must come through mining."

County Board of Supervisors Met.

The County Board of Supervisors met in Madisonville Monday and will be in session several days in which time they will go over the assessors list and apply the remedy where necessary. This board is composed of J. F. Dempsey, R. T. Whittinghill, W. P. Hobgood, H. F. G. Rothrock, Jno. Coal, B. F. Ligon and Jas. Gatlin.

Wholesale Candy House For Madisonville

Mr. Manon, proprietor of the Madisonville Candy Kitchen, has rented the store room adjoining his place of business and will operate a wholesale candy house. Since opening his business some three months ago Mr. Manon has met with such decided success that he concluded to go in the wholesale business and will supply the merchants of Madisonville, Earlington and Hopkins county with their candy.

The East End Card Club.

A most delightful meeting of the Card Club took place on last Friday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Ed Rule.

Miss Lockett, of Henderson, was the only out of town guest. The ladies enjoyed a number of interesting rubbers, Mrs. Geo. Atkinson making the best score.

The refreshments consisted of a most delicious salad course.

GREWSOME FIND.

Human Foot Found in Railroad Yard
Monday Morning.

While attending to his duties as car inspector railroad yards at this place Monday morning, Mr. Craynor car inspector found a human foot on the break beam of a car in second 84's train. The foot had been cut off just above the ankle and was encased in a nice tan shoe. It is thought to have belonged to young Holloway who was recently killed near Springfield, Tenn., and was sent back to that city by express.

Mrs. Sisk Dead.

Mrs. Mansil Sisk, an aged lady, of this city, died Wednesday after a lingering illness of fever. The interment took place at Grapevine cemetery Thursday in the presence of a number of friends and relatives. Mrs. Sisk was a good woman and was greatly beloved by her acquaintances. She leaves a husband and three children to mourn her loss.

EARLINGTON MAY HAVE FINE NEW RESERVOIR

Will Give More Than Sixty Pounds Pressure in Center of Business District.

WILL SUPPLY ALL PARTS OF CITY INCLUDING RIDGEWAY

If Built Will be Half Mile Southeast of Old Reservoir.

That Earlinton is to have a new reservoir, to meet the increased requirements of our growing, thriving city, the chief coal mining center and the freight traffic center of Western Kentucky, THE BEE can state as almost a certainty. This reservoir will be located not far from John Sharp's residence, on the ridge nearly one-half mile southeast of the present reservoir. The new reservoir, if built, will be on ground forty feet higher than the old one, which will give a pressure of some sixteen pounds per square inch more than afforded by the present system. The usual pressure in the business portion of the city will then be sixty pounds or more per square inch. The added height will also supply water under good pressure to parts of Earlinton not now served. This will be true of those residences on Ridgeway and in several blocks in the eastern part of the city, so that every section will be well supplied when the plans just now under consideration shall have been carried out.

The plan contemplates continuing the present reservoir in service, after putting it in good repair, the stage of water there to be controlled by a float valve. The mains from the new reservoir to the center of the city will probably be of eight inch cast iron pipe. Additional plumbing facilities will be added if found necessary.

The plans have been submitted to Mr. John B. Atkinson, president of the St. Bernard Mining Co., which concern owns the water system, and it is confidently believed will have his early approval.

Boost!

Begin the New Year with a boost for Earlinton.

THE BEE "told you so" many times and is telling you so again today in this first issue of the New Year.

Read this issue of THE BEE and you will absorb enough encouraging information upon which to boost Earlinton for the next hundred years.

There is more good news about Earlinton to follow. Watch the columns of THE BEE for these true stories of good things present and to come. These good fulfillments of THE BEE's true and consistent assurances and predictions of a long and prosperous future for Earlinton.

Read Mr. Atkinson's statement of fact, on the front page, about mining conditions here and his opinion of the future of the coal industry here and of Earlington's prospective growth as a mining and railroad center. And, incidentally, his opinion of the position occupied and the work done by THE BEE for the past twenty years and more.

Stomach Troubles Cured by Vinol

"I suffered so long from stomach trouble and indigestion, that I lost flesh rapidly — VINOL cured me after everything else had failed. It strengthened my digestive organs — gave me a hearty appetite, and I can eat anything without the slightest distress. I do not believe anything equals VINOL for stomach trouble and indigestion."

Mr. Thos. G. Wallace, of Detroit, Mich., writes, "I suffered for years from a chronic stomach trouble. VINOL entirely cured me after everything else had failed."

It is the curative medicinal elements of the cod's liver, combined with the strengthening properties of tonic iron contained in VINOL, which makes it so successful in restoring perfect digestion, and at the same time building up the weakened run-down system.

TWO AVIATORS MEET DEATH

John B. Moisant and Arch Hoxie Victims of Tretcherous Winds.

John B. Moisant a daring aviator met his death Saturday at Harahan a small station on the I. O. Railroad 11 miles from New Orleans. He left the city park aviation field at 9:35 o'clock a. m. full of life and vigor his eyes sparkling in anticipation of adding to his own and his country's glory by bringing the Michelin cup to America. Saturday night at the hour when he was to have received the coveted cup he lay in the morgue a martyr to silence of aviation.

Arch Hoxie who held the worlds record for altitude was killed near Pasadena, Cal., Saturday in the presence of thousands of people who packed the Grand Stand. He fell dead on the field from which he had risen a few minutes before with a laughing promise to pierce the zenith of the heavens and soar higher than any man had yet dared. Cross currents from a vagrant storm floated in from the sea, caught his biplane and shot him down 563 feet to the earth. His body was broken and twisted almost out of resemblance to a human being.

1911 A Happy and Prosperous New Year to All of Our Patrons! 1911

We have just closed the most prosperous year this store has ever known. The cash receipts have exceeded that of any previous year, not by hundreds but by thousands. This big increase is not an accident or a happen so; but the logical result of certain business principles which we are striving unceasingly to attain, and that is to give our patrons the very best of merchandise. Our store is growing in public favor because our experience has taught us that the people want good goods, not cheap goods. We want to make it a household word in every home in the county: If you want it GOOD go to

AD-TALK

What would you think of a salesman who reported for duty one day, lay off for two, worked a half day, went off for a week and so on without any regularity? Surely you would not expect good service from such a man. And yet some merchants hold advertising, which is simply a "salesman," up to great results when it is allowed to "work" very irregularly.

The fact that advertising costs money is proof of its value. Things without cost are usually worth only their price.

Madisonville Notes

BY AILEEN DAVIS

Blue Stocking Club.

Miss Isabelle Gardiner delightfully entertained the members of the "Blue Stocking Club" in a regular literary and social session in her home on West Sugg street, Friday afternoon, December 30, 1910.

After the program was dispensed with the plans for the study course for the remainder of the year were thoroughly discussed by all the members.

The invited guests present during the social hour were Miss Mary West, Miss Helen Gregory, Miss Florence Allyn and Miss Hattie West.

Miss Gardiner at the conclusion of the meeting served a most excellent and appetizing lunch.

Miss Lillian Roberts will be the hostess Saturday January 14.

Surprise Party.

Quite a number of her friends gave Miss Sibyle Hart a surprise party at her home on Hall street Saturday night. A number of interesting games were played and delightful refreshments served. The following were present: Misses Margaret and Louis McPherson, Hazel and Lucy Fawcett, Agnes Bailey, Metabeth Sory, Eleanor Smith; Messrs William Ross, Sam Arnold, Montgomery Holeman, Glen Eudaly, Jas. Sory, Harry Taliaferro, Bailey Russell, Chas. Grover, Herschel Logan, Lyle Robinson, Roy Vannoy, Perk Adams and Lawson Faxon. Misses Katherine Givens and Julia Fawcett assisted in serving refreshments.

Girls' Dance.

On Friday evening the girls' dance at the Elks' Home given in honor of the visitors of Madisonville and the young men of this city, proved to be a happy climax to the social events of the holiday season. The programs had a Harrison Fischer girl in evening dress etched on the cover page with red program pencils. The music employed was Linstrom's Orchestra of Henderson. During the intermission a refreshing luncheon was served.

A Card From Bourland & Moore.

We wish to say to all our friends and customers we have enjoyed a very prosperous year under our cash system, and we feel that we have saved you all a nice little sum of money by dealing with us and paying cash, as we have made our prices very low and have given our customers the benefit of the loss that comes in a credit business. We have increased our business to the biggest year we have ever had and feel that even with the small profits we have made more money than any other year.

Now starting in with the new year we are going to continue our strictly cash business and still save our customers money. We only ask you to give us a chance to price you our goods and we are sure we can convince you it pays to pay cash.

Wishing you all a happy and prosperous New Year and a continuation of your cash patronage we remain,

Yours for business,
BOURLAND & MOORE,
Madisonville, Ky.
